

SUIT FOR DAMAGES IS MADE BY JURY

Case Filed By Francis M. Howard Against I. C. & S. Traction Company on Trial Today.

PLAINTIFF ASKS FOR $5,000

Alleges That He Sustained Personal Injuries in Accident Here—Other Court News.

The case of Francis M. Howard against the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Company is on trial before a jury in circuit court today. In this case the plaintiff asks for damages in the sum of $5,000 for alleged personal injuries which he received while stepping from a moving interurban car. The plaintiff is represented at the trial by Seba A. Barnes and F. W. Wesner. Judge O. H. Montgomery and C. S. Baker represent the interurban company. The complaint alleges that the accident occurred in this city several months ago. It is stated by the plaintiff that he was assisting his daughter and her two children on the car at the interurban station in Seymour. He stated that as he had several grips in his hands he was compelled to leave the two children standing on the street near the interurban station until he could assist them to the car.

The plaintiff further avers that he got on the car but before he could leave it started to depart. He states in his complaint that he told the conductor that he wanted to get off and was informed that the car would stop at the next crossing. The plaintiff declares that he thought the conductor meant the turn at Second street and expecting the car to slow down at that place he jumped from the steps and was thrown violently to the ground. He alleges that he was considerably bruised and received several injuries. The jury was selected this morning and a number of witnesses were examined.

In the case of Joseph Stanfield vs. Sadie S. Stanfield in which the plaintiff asks for a divorce, the decree was granted to the plaintiff. Minnie Keith was also granted a divorce from Ralph E. Keith. She was given the custody of the children and the defendant was instructed to pay $2 a week for the support of the children until he had paid a total of $200. In the case of Curg Fleetwood vs. Laura Fleetwood, the plaintiff was granted the decree asked.

Funeral Services.

The funeral services of the late Jasper Stark, who was killed Friday morning while loading logs on a flat car, were held Sunday afternoon from his late residence on High street. The funeral was largely attended. The Rev. F. M. Huckleberry, pastor of the First Baptist church officiated. Burial at Riverview.

STILL IN DARK

Public Given No Information About Mysterious Surveying Party.

The mysterious surveying party that has been working between Indianapolis and Seymour for several weeks is still working in the dark so far as the public is concerned as nothing has been given out as to who they are or for whom the survey is being made. The man in charge of the party is located at Columbus and the surveyors are now working towards that city.

The men came here a few days ago and after securing some data from the office of the city engineer set their instrument on North Chestnut street and started to work north towards Columbus. It is said the survey has already been completed from Indianapolis to Columbus. It is known that the officials of the Pennsylvania Line know nothing regarding the survey party and have been making an effort to find out something about them. It is the general supposition that the survey is being made for the Indianapolis and Louisville Traction Company, although nothing official has been given out by that company.

WRECKING TRAIN

On P. C. C. St. L. Derailed North of the City.

The Pennsylvania wrecking train was derailed just north of the city late Saturday afternoon while on its way to replace some flat cars which jumped the switch leading to the C. T. H. & S-E. road. The flat cars were loaded with stone. The wrecking crew was called from Columbus and while making a flying switch three of the cars left the rails.

Southbound passenger train No. 18 was delayed a short time while the crew placed the cars on the track. Two brakemen were standing on one of the cars of the wrecker when it left the track and jumped down the bank, but were not hurt. No damage was done by the accident.

The local wrecking crew on the B. & O. S-W. was called to Commiskey late Saturday night to replace a dining car which had jumped the track. The diner was part of a branch train.

DESIRED NEW CLOTHES.

Lucy McKee Was Unable to Buy Them and Committed Suicide.

Because she wanted some new dresses and was unable to buy them, Lucy McKee, of Bartholomew county, became despondent and committed suicide Saturday afternoon by taking carbolic acid. She was the daughter of John McKee, a well known farmer of Nineveh township.

She had been working away from home for some time and Saturday secured some carbolic acid. She died shortly after swallowing the acid and did not leave any explanation as to why she took her own life. It is said that she had no love affair and the only reason her parents can give for her act was that she desired some new clothes but was unable to purchase them.

Repairing Track.

Trackmen of the Indianapolis & Louisville Traction line are repairing the track along the improved streets. In several places the rails were not level with the street. The council ordered the company to repair a few places on South Chestnut street and the men are making the repairs wherever needed.

FELL INTO FLAMES AND BADLY BURNED

Little Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lucas Met With Fearful Accident at Bedford.

SEVERE BURNS ABOUT FACE

Word Was Sent to Father Who is Working Here—Formerly Lived Near Freetown.

Gwindolyen, aged five years, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lucas, formerly of Salt Creek township, was fearfully burned Saturday afternoon at Bedford. For several months Mrs. Lucas has made her home at that place.

At the time of the accident Mrs. Lucas was washing and had a fire in the back yard. Her little daughter was playing near the flames and fell into the fire. Her clothing caught fire and she was badly burned about the face and body before the flames could be extinguished.

The little girl's aunt, Mrs. Lena Cross, who has been living at Lafayette was informed of the accident and was here today on her way to Bedford. It was first reported that the little girl had died of her injuries, but a later message stated that she was still alive, but in a serious condition. She is suffering intensely from the deep burns.

Mr. Lucas has been working here for several days and the report of the sad accident was sent to him here. The parents of the unfortunate girl lived in this county for several years and are well known in the community where they formerly resided.

Long Ride.

Maurice Doane, John Pfaffenberger and Maurice Fleebarts took a long ride on bicycles Sunday. They left here early in the morning and went to Vallonia and from there rode to Salem, returning to Mitchell in the afternoon. They made a total of sixty-five miles on their wheels. They came to Seymour from Mitchell by rail.

DETECTIVE EMPLOYED

To Investigate Disappearance of a Steer Stolen from Stock Buyer.

C. Campbell, a stock buyer of Nashville, Brown county, purchased some cattle at Houston a few days ago and while he was driving them to Nashville a thousand pound steer disappeared. He suspected that the steer had been stolen and employed a detective to make an investigation of the case.

It is said that the detective has been quietly working on the case for several days and has reported that he has learned the names of the men who stole the steer. He has found out, it is understood, that the steer was slaughtered and that the guilty parties are among the most prominent people of Brown county. It is expected that affidavits will be filed against the accused persons in a few days.

WORKING THE ROADS

Most of Them Are Rough and in Bad Condition for Travel.

Considerable work is being done on practically all of the roads leading to Seymour, and most of them are rough and in bad condition for travel. Every fall the highways are repaired and the worn places and holes are filled with gravel. In many places very little gravel is used and the dirt and weeds from along the sides are thrown to the center, making a high ridge. On a few of the roads, however, some gravel has been used to fill the ruts and holes.

If the roads were given the proper attention at this time of the year they would be in good condition next spring. During the winter months the new metal or gravel settles with the changing weather, and with a small amount of work in the spring the highways can be made solid and level.

FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Observed Sunday at White Creek German Lutheran Church.

The fiftieth anniversary of the present church building of the German Lutheran congregation at White Creek was observed Sunday with special services. The church at that place is one of the oldest in the county. The church was organized by the late Rev. Mr. Juengle. Since his pastorate the congregation has been served by the Rev. Fred Markworth, Rev. M. C. Baade, and the present pastor is the Rev. George Baumgart.

At the morning services a sermon was delivered by Director Luecke, of Concordia College, Fort Wayne. In the afternoon the services were in charge of the Rev. Mr. Baade, of Madisonville, O. Quite a number of members of other churches in the county attended the anniversary exercises.

Condition of Former President is Much Improved and He is Remained to His Home.

PASSED A RESTLESS NIGHT

Nervousness Due to Excitement of Departure—Was Anxious to Leave Hospital.

Chicago, October 21.—Theodore Roosevelt who was shot by John Schrank, of Milwaukee, last Monday night, left Chicago early today for his home at Oyster Bay. Preparations for his departure from Mercy hospital to the train were completed before 7 o'clock this morning and he was placed in an ambulance at 7:15 o'clock for the short trip to his private car. His train left the station at 8:30 o'clock on the Pennsylvania road. At 7:30 a. m. the following official bulletin was issued by the attending physicians after the early morning consultation and examination had been completed:

"Pulse, temperature and respiration normal. Wound still discharges a little serum. There is less inflammation. Point bullet location is sensitive to pressure, and bullet can now be distinctly located. General condition good. Rested well."

Colonel Roosevelt's last night at the hospital was rather a restless one. He slept only about four hours in the aggregate from the time he first fell asleep at 11:15 p. m. He woke frequently and he seemed nervous. It was said that this was chiefly due to the excitement of his coming departure and not to any untoward symptoms that had developed in the course of the night.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

ELLERMAN-VONFANGE.

A very pretty wedding occurred at 7:30 o'clock Sunday evening at the home of Herman Vonfange, 402 West Sixth street, when his daughter, Miss Emma, became the bride of Virgil Ellerman of Brownstown. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. H. Eggers, pastor of the German Lutheran church, in the presence of thirty friends and relatives. Miss Emma Osterman played Mendelssohn's Wedding march and during the ceremony the melody was changed to Traumeri. Miss Esther Ellerman was brides maid and Henry Vonfange was best man.

The bride's gown was white crepe chameuse trimmed with shadow lace. She wore a veil with a crown of pearls and carried a bouquet of bride's roses.

The house was beautifully decorated with palms and ferns. In the dining room there were an abundance of cut flowers, the color scheme of pink and white being carried out. Cream moulded in the shape of pink hearts was served. An elegant course supper was served after the ceremony.

The bride is actively identified with the work of the German Lutheran church, and has a large number of friends among whom she is popular. For some time she was employed at the Gold Mine Department store. Mr. Ellerman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ellerman of Brownstown and has a wide acquaintance.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellerman left Sunday evening on their wedding trip to St. Louis and Lincoln, Kansas. They will return in about two weeks and will reside on John street in this city. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. William Vonfange of Lincoln, Kansas.

DUVE-BISHOP.

The German Lutheran church at Dudleytown was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday afternoon when the Rev. H. Deimer pronounced the ceremony which united in marriage George Duvé and Miss Della Bishop. A large number of their friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony.

The bride was accompanied by her sisters, the Misses Laura and Lydia Bishop, the bridesmaids, and with the bridegroom were his brother, Fred Duvé, best man and William Kriete. The flower girls were Emma Snyder and Emma Deimer. The bride wore a gown of cream satin and carried a shower bouquet of carnations.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bishop and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duvé. Both the young people are well known in their community and have a large number of friends who extend congratulations. After the ceremony a supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Duvé will reside near Dudleytown.

THOMPSON-CLARK.

The marriage of Holmes Thompson of Cortland, and Miss Laura Clark, of Brownstown, occurred Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at their new home in Cortland, the Rev. E. F. Schneider, pastor of the Brownstown Methodist church, officiating. The ceremony was pronounced in the presence of about seventy-five of their friends and relatives. The bride wore a gown of white silk batiste and carried a large bouquet of bride's roses. The decorations of the house were in pink and white. After the ceremony light refreshments were served.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, of Brownstown and is a very popular young lady of that place. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Thompson of Cortland, and is well known in that community. The number of presents was large and included some very handsome gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Thompson will reside at Cortland.

BUSE-SCHPEMAN.

A pretty wedding occurred Sunday afternoon at the German Lutheran church at Sauers when George Buse a prosperous farmer of that neighborhood and Miss Martha Schepman were united in marriage by the Rev. William Pohlman in the presence of a large number of invited guests.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gariott Schepman.

HALLOWEEN PARTY.

Mrs. J. E. T. Dobbins entertained forty children at her home on North Chestnut street Saturday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 o'clock with a Halloween party in honor of her son, Junior Dobbins. The children enjoyed a very pleasant afternoon in games and other amusements which were arranged. The favors were tiny lanterns and skulls filled with candy. Light refreshments were served. During the afternoon each guest was presented with a Halloween cap.

EYES, TEETH AND FEET.

Many parents who give careful thought to the eyes and teeth of their children, forget they have feet. Yet at the tender growing age they are very sensitive to shoe discomforts. The constant irritation of tight ill fitting shoes robs them of their animal spirit leaving the mind dull and listless. Educator shoes give ample room for five toes. They are made for hard usage yet are not clumsy. The Educator gives the child's foot a square deal by letting them grow as they should. Made for the whole family.

READY FOR THE HOMeward TRIP

Colonel Roosevelt Leaves Chicago Hospital.

UNDER INJUNCTION OF QUIET

Distinguished Patient Departs From Mercy Hospital Bearing the Strictest Orders That the Family Quiet of His Special Car Must Not Be Broken by Callers During the Tedious Journey to Oyster Bay.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Ethel, Theodore, Jr., Dr. Lambert, the Roosevelt family physician; Dr. Scurry Terrell, the specialist who accompanied the colonel on his speaking tour and who was with him when the bullet from Schrank's pistol in Milwaukee brought the speaking tour to an end, and the colonel's two secretaries, Martin and McGrath, Colonel Roosevelt left over the Pennsylvania railroad at 8:15 o'clock this morning and will arrive in New York tomorrow morning. The private car was attached to one of the railroad's regular trains and on its arrival in New York it will be switched to an Oyster Bay train.

In connection with the departure of the colonel his plans for the rest of the campaign—the subject of the animated conference Saturday between the presidential candidate and Governor Hiram Johnson, his running mate, developed today. Governor Johnson will fill all of the eastern dates scheduled for the colonel, and will act as his direct personal representative. It also developed that the colonel's doctors have practically forbidden him to make any speeches in the next two weeks, and though the colonel has indicated an intention of attending the Madison Square Garden rally the last week of the campaign, it is doubtful if he does more than sit on the platform. The doctors say that the general condition of the colonel justifies his leaving the hospital for his home in Oyster Bay, but that it was deemed advisable, in order to lessen the possibility of complications, that he should not be disturbed in any way, and he will not be allowed to see anyone enroute.

In Good Condition for Trip.

Colonel Roosevelt marked time Sunday in anticipation of his departure for his home in Oyster Bay today. He obeyed to the strictest letter the imperative orders of the attending surgeons that he must remain absolutely quiet all day and not receive visitors, or he would not be permitted to leave Mercy hospital, and his condition reflects the wisdom of the order. The rest brought him complete recovery from the slight setback of Saturday caused by over exertion.

By reason of the plan worked out for Governor Johnson to fill the engagements made for Colonel Roosevelt, Governor Johnson faces possible loss of his seat as governor of California. The statute provides that if the governor is absent from the state for more than sixty days he will automatically lose his office. At the last session of the legislature, before Governor Johnson had been thought of as a vice presidential candidate, the legislature passed a resolution giving the governor permission to use his discretion about the matter of absenting himself from the state. Governor Johnson will have been absent from the state sixty days next Wednesday, and he says he expects an attempt will be made to unseat him.

TOO MUCH JOHNSON

Mayor Harrison Seeking a Way to Drive Black Pug Out of Chicago.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—Jack Johnson is keeping himself carefully secluded in the rooms above his cafe, and his bodyguard, stationed in the saloon below, turn all questioners away with the statement that Johnson would see nobody. Following his rough experiences Saturday afternoon, when a mob of a thousand persons threatened to lynch him in connection with the charge of abducting a young white woman, Johnson realizes his life is not safe here at any time.

Mayor Harrison says he is seeking some legal excuse that will permit him to close up Johnson's cafe and drive him from the city.

Auto Party's Close Call.

Manila, Oct. 21.—An auto party consisting of three officers and the same number of ladies, who were enjoying a moonlight ride in Major General Bell's car Sunday night, had a miraculous escape from death. The car skidded and turned a somersault over a thirty-foot embankment into a gorge below, but landed right side up. Two young ladies were thrown out and slightly hurt, but the other occupants of the car escaped uninjured.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 21.—"I won't punish anyone for an offense that I won't punish myself for," said Justice of the Peace A. G. Lewis, and ordered Marshal Tieben to arrest him for intoxication. Duly haled before himself the justice thought a fine of $5 and costs would cover the case and an entry was made on the docket of a total of $14.35.

WELCOME SIGHT TO DISTRESSED CREW

Life Savers Reach Burning Vessel In Time.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 21.—The Merchants and Miners steamer Berkshire is at anchor in Lookout cove, near Cape Lookout, with smoke pouring from her closed hatches from a fire raging in her forward freight hold, awaiting the arrival of the revenue cutter Seminole, to take off the twenty-one passengers the distressed vessel has on board.

With a high northeast gale and blinding rain sweeping the coast, the Berkshire is practically sheltered from the storm in Lookout cove. The crew with the assistance of life-savers are attempting to subdue the flames. Life-savers, after considerable effort, managed to reach the burning steamer, but made no effort to take off her passengers. The sea was so high it was considered dangerous to attempt to land the passengers through the raging surf, and as the ship appeared to be in no immediate danger, they were told to remain on board until the Seminole arrived. When the life-savers arrived the crew on the Berkshire had been fighting the flames in the hold of the ship for twelve hours. The fury of the gale prevented the opening of hatches and the men had to content themselves with fighting the flames through the interior of the ship, and they were driven back time and again by the suffocating smoke. Under forced draft the Berkshire was headed for Cape Lookout, while her wireless operator sent out appeals for assistance. Weather conditions were so unfavorable to wireless communication that her calls were apparently unheard, for only one vessel came to her aid. This was the Clyde line steamer Apache, which was near by when she picked up the Berkshire's call and within two hours was alongside the burning ship.

The Apache stood by the Berkshire for some hours, but did not enter Lookout cove with her. Captain Hart, commanding the Berkshire, brought in the big boat safely.

Message to Working Women.

All women work; some in homes, some in church, some in the whirl of society, and in stores, offices and shops, tens of thousands are on the never ceasing treadmill, earning their daily bread.

All women, however, are subject to the same physical laws, and suffer alike from the same physical disturbances and weaknesses, peculiar to their sex. Every woman, no matter what her station in life, should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the great remedy for female ills, in which she should place her trust.

Big Industry Resumed.

Hartford City, Ind., Oct. 21.—The first of the two immense tanks of the American Window Glass company's South Side machine-equipped window glass factory went into blast this morning after an idleness of nearly seven months for repairs, and next week the second tank will go into blast. The plant covers twelve acres of ground, employs 600 persons, and the average payroll is estimated at $30,000 a month.

STATE TROOPS IN READINESS

May Be Necessary to Stop Track Gambling.

NOW AWAITING DEVELOPMENTS

While a Company of the State Guard at South Bend is Under Waiting Orders, It Will Not Be Instructed to Proceed to the Racetrack in Porter County Unless Further Developments Require Such Action.

Indianapolis, Oct. 21.—State troops, in readiness in South Bend, will not be ordered to proceed to Porter county, where the Mineral Springs Jockey club is alleged to be conducting gambling in connection with a fifteen days' race meeting, unless further developments necessitate such action, says Mark Thistlethwaite, secretary to Governor Marshall.

Since the application for a permanent injunction will not be heard by Judge Tuthill of the Porter-Laporte superior court until ten days after the race meet has ended, the only recourse, it is said, which the state has, if racing is to be stopped at once, is in calling on the national guard.

"We are going to stop the gambling and we know how we are going to do it, but for the present we do not care to show our hand," said Mr. Thistlethwaite, who is acting governor during the governor's absence on a western campaign trip.

Attorney General Honan also declined to indicate the next move to be taken by the state, though he did not hesitate to say that troops, as a last resort, will be ordered to the "seat of war."

"We are not bluffing," said the attorney general. "The state will stop the gambling, and it will do so soon, but we prefer not to reveal our plans. For certain reasons we withdrew our application for a temporary restraining order, but we will fight hard to procure a permanent injunction. We want to stop the racetrack gambling for all time to come. Something is going to happen during the next few days which will make it mighty interesting for the racetrack gamblers."

The orders of Brigadier General George W. McCoy, adjutant general of Indiana, to Captain Guy E. Kimble of South Bend to hold Company F, Third Infantry, Indiana national guard, in readiness to proceed on short notice to the Porter county racetrack were issued following a conference between Secretary Thistlethwaite and the attorney general. While the secretary and attorney general declined to discuss their plans, it is presumed, in view of the orders issued for troops to be held in readiness, that their next move will be to direct the South Bend guardsmen to proceed to Porter county. Direct railroad connections would make it possible for the troops to reach the racetrack within a short time after moving orders were issued.

TOWN IN MOURNING

Impressive Honors Paid to Billy Rugh's Memory at Gary.

Gary, Ind., Oct. 21.—The populace of the city of Gary turned out en masse Sunday to pay their last respects to their dead hero, Billy Rugh, the newsboy. No like demonstration probably ever will be seen in the Steel City again. Not only did fraternal orders and civic bodies turn out, but every department in the Gary steel mills that could possibly do so closed in order that the employees might march in the funeral procession.

Mayor Knotts issued two proclamations, one calling for subscriptions to the Rugh memorial fund and the second asking citizens to attend the funeral, which was in charge of the city. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Rugh's body was taken to the Methodist church. The Rev. Dr. J. M. Avann conducted the services. The pallbearers were six police officers. Honorary pallbearers were the superintendents of the three steel plants of Gary and men prominent in the city. The musicians' union of Lake county played the funeral dirges. The band was composed of more than 100 members.

Following the services Rugh's body was taken to Rock Island, Ill., where it was laid beside that of his mother, as was his request.

When Ethel Smith, for whom Rugh sacrificed his life, learned of Rugh's death she was plunged into the deepest grief, and her condition was such that a physician had to be called. The girl at once instructed her father, Charles Smith, to purchase a beautiful bouquet of roses; these rested on Billy's coffin and accompanied it to the grave.

"Labor is standardized by trades unions and this is the standard to which it is made to conform. . . . I need not point out how economically disastrous such a regulation of labor is. It is so unprofitable to the employer that in some trades it will presently not be worth while to attempt anything at all. . . . Our economic supremacy may be lost because the country grows more and more full of unprofitable servants."—From an address by Prof. Wilson to the graduating class of Princeton university, June 30, 1909.

Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for president, is now addressing honeyed words to the laboring man in the hope of securing the labor vote. He would, if he could, have the workman forget the address delivered by him at Princeton in 1909, in which he regretted that "labor is standardized by the trades unions," and asserted that such a regulation of labor is "economically disastrous." Nor will labor forget that in the same speech he characterized members of labor unions as "unprofitable servants."

No wonder that the Minnesota State Federation of Labor recently adopted resolutions condemning Professor Wilson for his antagonistic attitude toward organized labor.

And while Professor Wilson is appealing to the workman to overlook his own personal views and vote the Democratic ticket he should know that the record of the Democratic party in connection with the workman is engraved upon the tablets of labor's memory.

Labor has not voted for a Democratic president since the terrible experience which followed the Democratic victory in 1892.

And labor will not this year vote to repeat those distressing times.

What Labor Remembers.

Labor has not forgotten that under Democratic administration, before the election of President McKinley, thousands of idle men were walking the streets of every city, town and hamlet in the country in search of employment and the chance to earn an honest living, while those or many of them who chanced to have employment were working for a mere pittance.

Labor has not forgotten the soup houses established all over the country at that time.

Labor has not forgotten the processions of unemployed—from New York to San Francisco, and from the Canadian border to the Gulf, seeking NOT CHARITY, BUT WORK, during a Democratic national administration.

Labor has not forgotten Coxe's and Kelly's "armies," one of the products of Democracy.

Labor has not forgotten the hordes of tramps made by Democratic rule.

Labor has not forgotten that the Democratic national administration caused the depletion of labor's treasures to keep the destitute and unemployed alive.

Labor has not forgotten those trying days of Democratic misrule, when it turned its halls, meeting places and assembly rooms into sleeping quarters for all who could find room therein.

No Bread to Eat.

Labor has not forgotten that labor alone suffered then, that labor lacked bread to eat, clothes to wear and a roof for shelter.

Labor has not forgotten that labor alone worked out the problem of its salvation in those trying days.

Labor has not forgotten that it bounced Democratic rule for Republican rule at its first opportunity in the first presidential election after that period—in 1896, and has not voted for a Democratic candidate for president since.

Labor has not forgotten that trusts and monopolies were born in the White House while a Democratic president stood guardian.

Labor has not forgotten that Democratic free trade means free trade in labor only.

Now a Full Dinner Pail.

Labor has not forgotten its lesson on how it passed through poverty and friendlessness and Democratic maladministration to the full dinner pail of the McKinley and subsequent Republican administrations.

Labor has not forgotten that the American Federation of Labor held its annual convention in the council chamber in the city hall, Chicago, the week of Monday, December 11, 1893, at a time when 5,000 men were nightly sleeping on the cold stone floors of Chicago's city hall building, because of lack of money to secure other shelter.

Farmers Will Not Forget.

And farmers have not forgotten that during the period which brought such untold disaster to labor they themselves were neither prosperous nor happy. They worked hard and raised big crops, but their market was gone because their customers could not buy.

The candidate and the party whose policy puts labor out of a job robs the farmer of his profit just as truly as if the blow were aimed at him direct.

LODGE'S BULL'S EYE SHOTS

Massachusetts Senator States Some Truths in Few Words.

When Senator Lodge of Massachusetts opened the Taft campaign in Ohio recently he uttered some truths in a few words. Here are a few of the sentences which ought to be read and remembered:

"I believe most profoundly that now, as in the past, the success of the Republican party is for the best interests of the people of the United States."

"The Democratic house presented the woolen schedule in a form which would put an end to the woolen manufactures of the United States and would slaughter the product of the American sheep raiser."

"If you desire to strike down the sheep and woolen industries of the United States, give the Democrats full power, and you will have it done; if you do not, the only way to preserve them is to elect a Republican congress and a Republican president."

"If the proposed constitutional changes should be carried into effect they would completely revolutionize our system and theory of government, as we have known it since the beginning of history."

"All the progress that has been made in this country in 50 years has been by the Republican party."

"The Republican party has always been the party of sane and rational progress under the Constitution."

"The Republican party stands for liberty as against license; for order as against confusion; for loyalty to the great principles of justice and freedom which have been handed down to us from the days of Washington; in one word, it stands for the constitution which Marshall interpreted and which Lincoln saved."

DESERTS PROF. WILSON.

Why a Democratic Editor Declares for President Taft.

J. Holman Buck, the Democratic editor of the Western Nevada Miner at Mina, in voicing his allegiance to the Taft administration, is not sparing in his criticisms of the actions and policies of Governor Woodrow Wilson, the Democratic nominee, or of Roosevelt. Buck is a Democrat of the old school and readily sees the error of his ways in supporting the Democratic nominee for the presidency. In speaking of Wilson he has the following to say:

"A man utterly untried in the affairs of government; whose administration as governor of New Jersey has proven a failure and a farce; whose views have been contracted by a lifetime spent in the narrow confines of the school room; whose associations have naturally been the classes rather than the masses and whose radical views and vagaries outrival those of Debs and Emma Goldman and that no more represents real Democracy than does the frothings of Roosevelt. The issues then are Taft, conservatism, the preservation of the constitution and a free Republican form of government, versus Wilson, socialistic radicalism and the turning over of established form of government to a mobocracy. Believing as we do we would be unjust to ourselves and false to principles and the public did we not align ourselves with Mr. Taft and the principles he represents. We hope that in the coming fray that he will be victorious and shall lend every effort at our command to bring this about. Party lines, by the issues promulgated, have been swept aside and conservative Democrats, be they true to themselves and principles, will support William Howard Taft for president and rebuke the arrogant domination of Bryan and his piratical band of socialistic agitators."

DODGED TARIFF REVISION

Roosevelt, When President, Failed to Take Any Action.

Once in his life Mr. Roosevelt almost expressed an opinion on the tariff question. In a preliminary draft of one of his messages to congress as it came from the printer was this sentence: "In a later message I shall discuss the tariff." On revising the proof sheets of his message Mr. Roosevelt blue-penciled that line. And he never came even that near to discussing the question again as long as he remained in the White House.

And yet the tariff law then on the statute books was far more objectionable than the Payne law, which he is now so vigorously denouncing. Why didn't he revise the tariff the way he now says it ought to have been when he had the power? He says now he wants to "fix it so that more of the tariff 'prize money' will go into the pay envelope of the workman." Why didn't he "fix it" that way during the seven and one-half years he was in the White House?

In other words, in the face of his record while in office, is not all the Third Termer's present talk about the tariff the most transparent guff and bluff and balderdash?

MEXICO FACING SERIOUS REVOLT

The Diaz Revolution Daily Is Gaining Strength.

UNITED STATES MAY INTERFERE

Word Has Gone Forth From This Government That the Line of Communication From Mexico City to Tampico on East Coast, Must Be Kept Open in Order That Foreigners May Have a Safe Exit.

Mexico City, Oct. 21.—The report that Gen. Zozaya, chief of the Thirtieth battalion, has joined the revolutionists under Gen. Felix Diaz at Vera Cruz with 600 men, is confirmed by the war department. He captured the town of Santa Lucrecia, which he now occupies after having garrisoned Sierra Blanca. The government forces have not yet attacked Vera Cruz. They are being mobilized at Tejeria, a station on the Mexican railroad, by General Boltram, who is awaiting reinforcements from the north. Eight hundred of these men will probably arrive here today. Four hundred men with artillery have left Texcoco for Tejeria.

The news published here in regard to the situation at Vera Cruz is very inaccurate, as the government controls the newspapers, and all sorts of stories are being printed. Some of the untrue statements printed are that General Felix Diaz is a prisoner; that he and General Ordaz have been assassinated and that General Zozoya (who has gone over to the rebels) is bombarding Vera Cruz.

Montgomery Schuyler, jr., the American charge d'affaires, has been informed that the consuls at Vera Cruz have organized a committee of safety among the citizens to protect the foreigners at that place. It is reported that 300 prisoners in the historic fortress of San Juan Uluu at Vera Cruz mutinied. The Mexican gunboats which are still loyal to the government bombarded the fortress, killing the 300 prisoners. Three hundred and fifty engineers of the geodetic survey offered their services to the government to go to fight the rebels. Their offer was accepted, but when the men arrived at Vera Cruz they joined the rebels.

The careful planning which it is now apparent preceded the Diaz revolt is taken as an indication that Felix Diaz has behind him some of the best brains and a good deal of the wealthy interests of Mexico. While it is being rumored that Porfirio Diaz, the exiled president, is supporting his nephew, it is believed here that there is little significance in these reports. While it is admitted in observant circles that the success of Diaz would probably result in at least a temporary cessation of disorders, foreigners here are not at all convinced that he is big enough or strong enough to hold in check the increasingly large lawless element.

Word that the American government has notified the Madero government that communication between this capital and the east coast must be kept open regardless of circumstances is heard by foreigners here with much satisfaction. The situation in the south of Mexico is likened to that which existed in China last winter during the revolution. The powers then insisted on exercising their treaty rights of using their soldiers to keep open the railroad from Tientsin to Peking, thus assuring all foreigners a means of exit from the Chinese capital. While no immediate apprehension is entertained here that the situation in Mexico will become as serious as was that in China, the insistence that communication between Mexico City and Tampico be kept open is regarded as wise at this time.

It is not probable that such a situation will arise as to make it necessary for the United States to use its own forces in maintaining communication between Mexico City and Tampico. Felix Diaz is not only known to be strongly pro-American in his inclinations, but he is also a man of much higher standards than the brigands who have been exasperating the United States by their operations along the Mexican border.

Did Fancy Stunts in Air.

Paris, Oct. 21.—Aviator Lacour was doing some fancy monoplane stunts in his aeroplane at Toulouse when a gust of wind struck the machine. The airman was thrown out and fell 500 feet. He was dead when picked up.

THE ALLIES PUSHING THEIR TURKISH FOES

All News From the Balkans Favors Christians.

London, Oct. 21.—In their advance on Adrianople, where the Turks have massed one division of their army, the Bulgars are pushing on steadily. Encouraged by their victory at Mustapha Pasha, the door of Adrianople on the northern frontier, one division of the army of Bulgaria is pushing along both banks of the Meritza. The right wing is moving across the heights commanding the valley of Arda and the advancing guard is capturing and blowing up bridges on the road to Adrianople.

A second division of the Bulgars is said to be shelling Kirk-Killish, where already there has been severe fighting and the capture of that town, thirty-two miles from Adrianople, is said to be imminent. Further details of the battle between the Greeks and Turks at Ellassen in Thessaly on Saturday show that the Greeks captured that town after a spirited engagement. The Turks, finding they had been outflanked, retreated. They left seven guns behind them and the Greeks captured eighty prisoners. The Greek advance guard has captured a village twenty miles from the Turkish frontier.

Eleven Greek warships have been seen off the Turkish island of Lemnos and a bombardment there is expected. The Montenegrins have captured Plava and Cussinje on their advance upon Scutari.

The censorship of all war news is being most rigidly maintained. Nothing but news favorable to the Bulgarians can pass the censor at Sofia, and the same holds true in the other capitals.

Broken Rail Causes a Kentucky Excursion Train to Go in Ditch.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 21.—A broken rail caused an excursion train on the Illinois Central to leave the tracks at Green's Crossing, six miles from here, about 8 o'clock Sunday morning, and at least fifty passengers were injured, while most of the 180 passengers aboard were badly shaken up. The accident occurred on top of an embankment ten feet high and the four passenger coaches plunged off, three of them turning over on their sides as they fell.

The train was headed for Paducah, most of the passengers being Woodmen of the World from this and neighboring towns, who expected to attend a big Woodmen rally at Paducah.

Displayed Too Much Money.

Greensburg, Ind., Oct. 21.—John Davis of Franklin county was traced to this city and was placed under arrest on a charge of robbing F. M. Perkins, a farmer near Laurel, of more than $300. The officers learned that Davis had deposited $100 in a bank here. Davis made several purchases of local stores and flashed his money indiscriminately, it is said.

Bank Wrecked by Robbers.

Danville, Ill., Oct. 21.—Robbers dynamited the bank of the Southern Illinois Banking company at Goodwin, Ill., and secured a large sum of money. The charge was so heavy that the building as well as the safe was wrecked. The robbers were trailed to Hickman, where they attempted to dynamite a safe in a general store. They were frightened away.

Marconi, the inventor, whose right eye recently was removed following an injury in an automobile accident, has developed alarming symptoms and it is feared that complications are threatening the other eye.

Liquor and Labor

By CHARLES STELZLE

ALL the abolition of the liquor traffic create a labor panic? This is a fair question, especially as it is asked by the workingman, who worries more about losing his job than he does about going to hell. To his mind, therefore, the economic aspects of the liquor problem are more important than any other. The accompanying chart presents some interesting information with reference to this subject. The figures employed were taken from the Bulletin of Statistics on Manufactures, 1910, table 1. The tonnage on the railroads of the country derived from the liquor industry amounts to only .003 of its total business. There isn't much in it for the railroad man.

ECONOMIC ASPECTS OF THE LIQUOR PROBLEM

The United States spent in one year for INTOXICATING LIQUOR $1,800,000,000 for BREAD and CLOTHING 1,800,000,000
Wage Earners Employed

Intoxicating Liquor	62,920
Bread and Clothing	493,655

Wages Paid

Intoxicating Liquor	$45,252,000
Bread and Clothing	$244,196,000

Cost of Raw Materials

Intoxicating Liquor	$139,199,000
Bread and Clothing	$744,337,000

If the money spent for Intoxicating Liquor had been spent for Bread and Clothing, it would have employed about seven times as many workers. What becomes of the argument that there will be a labor panic if the liquor industry is destroyed?

Of the total crop of grain for 1911 only 3 per cent was used in the liquor business. There isn't much in it for the farmer. These are also government statistics, and the government isn't in the anti-saloon business. Invariably when compared with other industries the liquor business is at a disadvantage. The liquor business employs only one-fifth as many workers for the same amount invested as is the case in the average number employed in the textile, iron, lumber, leather and paper industries. The worker in the liquor business receives only about one-third as much of the profit in the business as those in these industries receive. The individual worker may receive more money, largely because there are few women employed, but it is a well known fact that the brewery worker dies at an earlier age than do the workers in the average industry. For example, between the ages of forty-five and fifty-five the average death rate for occupied males is 20.7 per thousand, but among the brewery workers the death rate at the same age is 30.8 per thousand, more than 50 per cent higher. What about the bartenders, salesmen and other workers in the liquor business? These have been eliminated in this discussion, because whatever argument applies to these workers in the liquor business applies with even greater force to those in the other industries mentioned. It requires more people to sell $1,800,000 worth of bread and clothing than it does to sell liquor of the same value.

FREY—

What Do You Build By Wilbur C. Nesbit

"Now, if any man build upon this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble;
"Every man's work shall be made manifest: for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is."—First Corinthians III, 12-13.

You build them well, and you build them high—
These marble and granite piles;
Your pointed towers salute the sky
With turrets and gleaming tiles.
Your arches leap till they meet in space,
And leap till they meet again,
You build with power and build with grace—
But where are you building men?

Your halls and temples are proudly raised,
And firmly and nobly planned;
What wonder, then, that we stand amazed?
You build with a lavish hand.
You build completely, with art sublime—
A theme for a subtler pen
To bound and balance in coming time—
But where are you building men?

You dig your trenches and build your walls
And rear to your lasting fame
The massive pillars and stately halls,
And carve on the gates your name.
All gromed and windowed and roofed and eaved
With all in the builder's ken,
A splendid thing you have thus achieved—
But where are you building men?

You build the structure to house your pride,
The girder and post you raise,
You make them high and you make them wide—
But what of the coming days?
Who builds the courage of mind and heart
And soul, that will help us then?
You build with cunning in every part—
But where are you building men?

SENATE COMMITTEE RESUMES HEARINGS

Probable That Investigation Will Close Tomorrow.

Washington, Oct. 21.—The chief witnesses when the senate committee investigating campaign funds resumed its hearings today were Thomas F. Ryan and George W. Perkins. There may be one or two other witnesses. But at the close of the hearing tomorrow, the committee will suspend work until after election. It is the general opinion here that this will mark the close of the inquiry, for it is doubtful if interest in it survives after election day.

The committee will not be unanimous in its report if it takes a decided stand on any of the phases of the hearings. Senator Clapp, the chairman, will not subscribe to any report condemning or criticizing Colonel Roosevelt. This suggests the strong probability of a divided report.

Chairman Clapp says that a statute will certainly be passed at an early day forbidding contributions to biennial elections of congressmen. He adds that there will be a movement to hold all the presidential primaries in all the states on the same day as a means of lessening the rivalry that fattens campaign funds. As to just how far the committee will go in condemning anybody there is some doubt, but it seems likely that the facts will be allowed for the most part to carry their own suggestions for the future and that the committee will refrain as far as possible from any specific recommendations.

Practical Fashions

LADY'S DRESS.

This attractive costume represents one of the best styles of the season. It is very simple to carry out, even for the amateur needleworker. The waist can be made with high or low neck and with or without the plastron. The skirt is cut in three pieces and is quite a fashionable model. A pretty idea for development is offered in the drawing. Here we have batiste and all-over delightfully combined.

The pattern (5839) is cut in sizes 32 to 42 inches bust measure. Medium size will require 4 1/2 yards of 36 inch material and 1 1/2 yards of 22 inch all-over, with 5 1/2 yards of banding. If made of one material, the pattern calls for 5 1/2 yards of 36 inch goods.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

"THE HAIRS OF YOUR HEAD ARE NUMBERED"

There is a great deal of truth in the old saying.

Roots die, vitality gives out. The hair begins to turn grey.

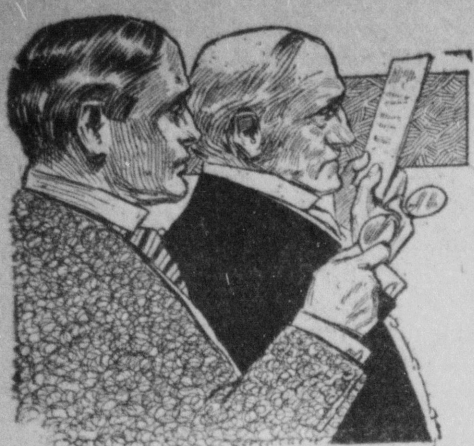

This is particularly unfortunate as we are all living in an age when to LOOK young means to fill the YOUNG and IMPORTANT positions. Old fogies go to the background.

If you should begin to chalk down every day of your life, you would be surprised and soon learn that "The Grey Hairs of Premature Old Age" come on very quickly, if you neglect them.

THE WORLD-RENOWNED AND ONLY ABSOLUTE SMOKE CONSUMING STOVE ON EARTH. THE WONDER OF THE AGE.

The Hot Blast
Air-Tight

FLORENCE

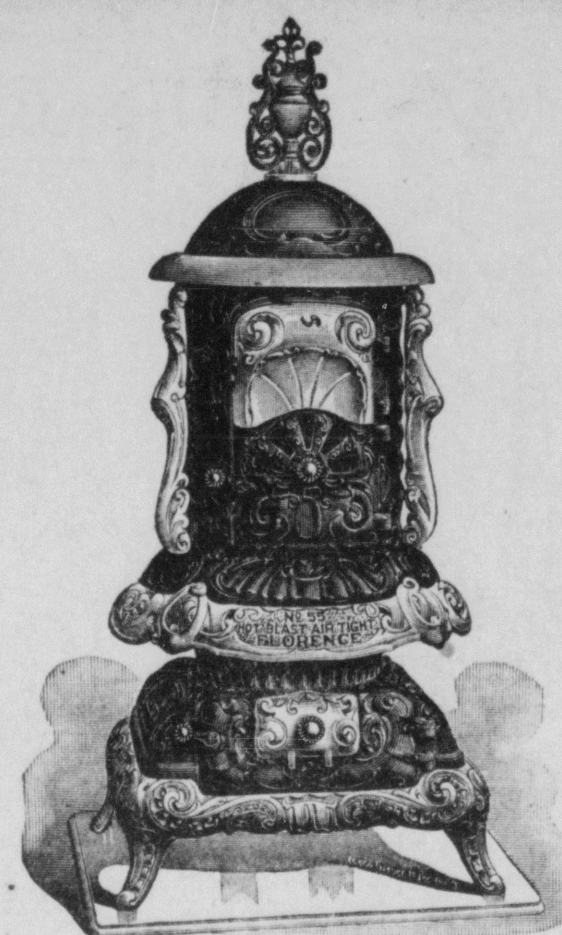

Patented June 13, 1899.

The Zenith of Stove Perfection

The only jointless leg bottom and base with full radiation and large ash pan that is on the market or has ever been made in the history of the stove industry. The jointless leg bottom and base makes the stove air tight below the grate, which is the only true fire-keeping principle. It will be as good a fire keeper twenty years hence as it is today. The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence will heat twice the space that can be heated by any other stove on earth at one-half the cost. The only perfect floor heater that is or has ever been made. All features are patented, and no stove manufacturer, dealer or user can copy same for seventeen years from date of patent without incurring liability for an action for damages. J. B. Howard, Inventor.

The Hot Blast Air-Tight Florence burns soft coal or slack, and all the smoke and gases. No filling up of the stove, pipe or flue with soot. No dirt inside or outside the house. It will burn hard coal and all the gases which escape from the hard coal base burner. It will burn wood and sawdust wet or dry. It will produce one-half less ashes than any other stove on earth with any kind of fuel, and leave no clinkers or half-consumed fuel.

NEVER LOST HOPE

Terre Haute Miner Lost Three Days
in Abandoned Workings.
Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 21.—Mike
Karkas, miner at the Oak Hill mine, missing for three days and supposed to have gone away, made his appearance
Sunday after being lost in the mine.

He had crossed over into old workings and could not find his way back.
He had repeatedly passed an old man-way without knowing it until accidentally he came to it Sunday and climbed out. He had no food and no light, the oil in his lamp having been exhausted in the first hours of his wanderings.
He was little the worse for his experience,
and says he never lost hope.

Oddities of Translation.

When the Bible was translated into Japanese an equivalent to the word
"baptize" could not be found, and the word "soak" had to be used instead, so that Japanese Biblical students are acquainted with a person named "John the Soaker" and with a doctrine of "soaking for remission of sins." In that case the mistranslation is due to inadequacy of language. It is oftener due to ignorance. A schoolboy once rendered "Miserere, Domine!" into "Oh, heartbroken schoolmaster!" And another recovered from German the text "The spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak," in the form "The ghost, of course, is ready, but the meat is feeble."—London Standard.

The Musk Ox.

The musk ox is an arctic animal, occurring both in Greenland and in North America. In pleistocene times it occurred in England and central Europe. It is about the size of one of our smaller breeds of ox, but in habits and in the fact that most of its muzzle is hairy more like a sheep than a bovine. Its hair is very long, thick and matted. The horns in the young are small, upright and far apart, but in the adult they become very broad at the base and meet in the middle and take a curve downward and outward, while the ends curve again upward to a point. It owes its name to its strong musklike odor.

The Supply Held Out.

SAVED HIS SON

From Constitutional Decline.
So many cases like this are coming to our attention for the benefit of fathers and mothers of weak, sickly, ailing children in this vicinity we publish the following letter:—Mr.
Richard Rush, of Columbus, Ind., says: "I believe I am indebted to the valuable medicinal properties of Vinol for the health of my little son Dale. He had a severe attack of whooping cough and measles, which affected his lungs and general constitution. We tried several other remedies without benefit, then commenced using Vinol and I take pleasure in acknowledging my confidence in its restorative and reconstructive virtues, for my little son is the picture of health now, all due to the use of Vinol."

This is because the child needed the strengthening cod liver elements and the tonic iron that Vinol contains. No oil, delicious taste. Children love it.
We give back your money if Vinol
does not do all we claim. Andrews

Letter of Commendation.

The New Building and Loan Association has received the following letter from the auditor of state after his second examination of the association:

State Building and Loan Department,
Indianapolis, August 8, 1912.

Mr. Harry M. Miller, Sec'y., New Building and Loan Association, Seymour, Indiana.
My Dear Sir:

We have examined the report of the examination of the accounts and records of your association recently made by State building and loan examiner, Hon. Isaac Dunn. Your financial condition is satisfactory, loans well secured and accounts correct.

This is the second examination of your association made by the State and we are pleased to report, that your association has made splendid progress since our last examination and your policy is conservative, honest and economical.

Your association pays three times as much in dividends as the Postal Savings Bank pays interest and there is no need of the Postal Savings Bank in competition with your association.

Safety is the proposition of paramount importance among the people and under the efficient management of your well known officers of ability and responsibility and with the same system of State examination as provided for banks and trust companies, which we now have under the new building and loan law, (generally conceded to be the best building and loan law in the United States) we regard your association as being safe and sound in every particular.

Your association is entitled to and will receive the most cordial assist-

Fall and Winter Style Exhibit

Tomorrow, we will open our Fall and Winter season with an exhibit of the newest and most attractive of the season's styles in coats and suits. This exhibit will include—

Suits

Severely plain tailored suits in mannish serges, whipcords, chevots, novelties and diagonal twills, simply but effectively trimmed.

Elaborate suits for afternoon wear, beautifully trimmed in velvet, braid and elaborate braid fastenings.

The Robespierre and Directoire collars, novel revers, modish trimming, make these suits an assortment from which it is easy to choose just the one you like best.

Separate Coats

In warm-looking rough materials, the most prominent of which are the plaid-backed fabrics, chinchillas, rough tweeds and zibelines, also beautiful fur fabric coats and broadcloths for afternoon and evening wear.

The latest features of these coats are—the three new collars, Napoleon Revers, Robespierre and Directoire, unusual lines especially in the backs, the wide belts, generous cuffs, deep pockets, set-in sleeves with very deep armholes.

Simple—Serviceable— Beautifully tailored

These are the three features which charac-terize especially the "Bischof Man-Tailored" coats and suits, which are a leading part of our stock.
They have that perfect finish which can only be attained by flawless workmanship. They are tailored to fit and hold their shape, and we know they will please you in every way.

Bischof

Come early in the morning and spend an unhurried, interesting hour among these new creations of the season.

PRETENDING.

Takin' our chances as they come along
And when they ain't pretendin' they are good.

—Kipling.

Ever watch children when they were pretending? What delight they have in playing grownups! The little boys pretend they are Indians or soldiers or cowboys. The little girls pretend at keeping house and that the doll is a baby, and they make and receive calls like their elders. Well, we are all children—

Children a little larger grown. Can not we also get some happiness out of pretending?

Why not make a virtue of necessity and, when chances do not come along, go ahead, pretending that they do? Pretense may prove valuable.

Do you remember about the poor little marchioness who discovered that orange peel, water and sugar would make a pretty fair wine if she pretended? She got a lot of comfort out of the make believe.

There's virtue in assumption.

The so called "new thought" is largely built upon assumption or suggestion. You suggest to yourself that you are in the enjoyment of good health. You continue to assert the fact until the assumption is a fact. You assume you are prosperous. You persist in that assumption. You thus adopt the optimistic state of mind that brings prosperity.

"As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." If he thinks himself mean he will be mean. If he thinks himself virtuous he is apt to be.

Pretending to be happy is more likely to produce happiness than to suggest to yourself that you are unhappy. The children have discovered that.

Tolerance of a bad situation and the determination to keep sweet through it all have pulled many a mortal out of the slough of despond.

I know a mother who tells her children they are the best children in the neighborhood. These children, in fact, are perceptibly better than those whose mothers tell them they are naughty.

Nothing helps like approval. And approval of oneself goes a long way toward accomplishment.

Difficult? Yes, at first. It is difficult to pretend that you are happy when you are not or that things are good when they seem to be bad. But

The optimistic view will change the complexion of things if anything will. Certainly the pessimistic view will make them worse.

Let us pretend the chance will come to us.

And probably it will.

CHAPTER XX.

The Picture Gallery.

I thought I knew Jo. I don't. She had either changed since we separated, or there were latent qualities in her that I never suspected. She had never been curious, especially about things that were none of her business, but she linked her arm through mine as we went toward the drawing-room after dinner.

"Who is the duke in love with?" she wanted to know.

"Natalie," I replied.

"Not wants to marry," she qualified, "but cares for—loves?"

"If you mean anything horrid, clandestine—why, I don't know anything about it, and I don't think you have any business thinking such things."

She merely smiled at my outburst.

"Is there a picture gallery here?" she asked presently.

"Yes. Why?"

"Oh, no reason particularly. There always is in these houses, isn't there?"

"No. There always isn't. Everybody I know, except the Hazards, have their pictures in town."

"Louie, what was the name of the German count who took us to the Spring Exhibition?"

"Count Felix von Brunner," I answered promptly.

"Of course!" she exclaimed. "I've racked my brain for an hour trying to think of it."

I turned about and faced her.

"Now look here, Jo, you are making me crazy with curiosity. You've asked me three questions for no reason on earth that I can see, and I want to know why."

"And you haven't asked me the one question I expected you to ask," Jo smiled quizzically.

"Where did you know John?" I demanded.

"He has a client who wants to buy our stock in the mine," she answered; "a client who thinks he can pump it dry."

"Can it be done, Jo?"

"I don't know." She laughed outright at my excitement. "He wants to buy up all the stock. He can get it cheap, except ours. He offers us five thousand dollars for it. It's worth nothing unless the mine is pumped. Odd, wasn't it, Mr. Crowninshield never guessed who I was? And of course I didn't tell him."

"Gracious me!" I exclaimed, rather breathless at the prospect. "What does Mr. Partridge say?"

"Sell."

"Well, what are you—we—going to do? Sell?"

"I'd rather have the income," she answered.

"But there isn't any," I pointed out.

"If a man knows—and he does know, Louie—that he can pump that mine dry, can buy up all the stock practically for nothing, except ours, and he lets our little bundle keep him from pumping, he's crazy. And if he pumps we will have an income. It's a gambler's chance, and I am going to take it."

"Yes, sounds gamely," I commented. "What the poker players call a bluff."

"I'm not bluffing—I'm standing pat," Jo reminded me. "And I'm taking the chance because I want to end this work of yours, dear, and these silly—accusations."

We had walked to the end of the wide hallway, and I dropped down in a window seat, grossly neglecting my duties and forgetting that my friends were apt to get mixed. The prospect of going back to that tidy little life Jo and I once led suddenly appalled me.

"I don't want you to—to end it," I stammered. And seeing Jo's amazed expression, I hurried on: "Being Secretary of Frivolous Affairs isn't important, I know, but it's my life now. I can't go back to things as they were. I would never be satisfied."

"You can't seriously mean that you want to keep on with this? Being a well-paid servant of the rich?" she asked.

"Yes," I admitted.

"I'm sorry, dear," she said softly.

"Why sorry?"

"It's dangerous!"

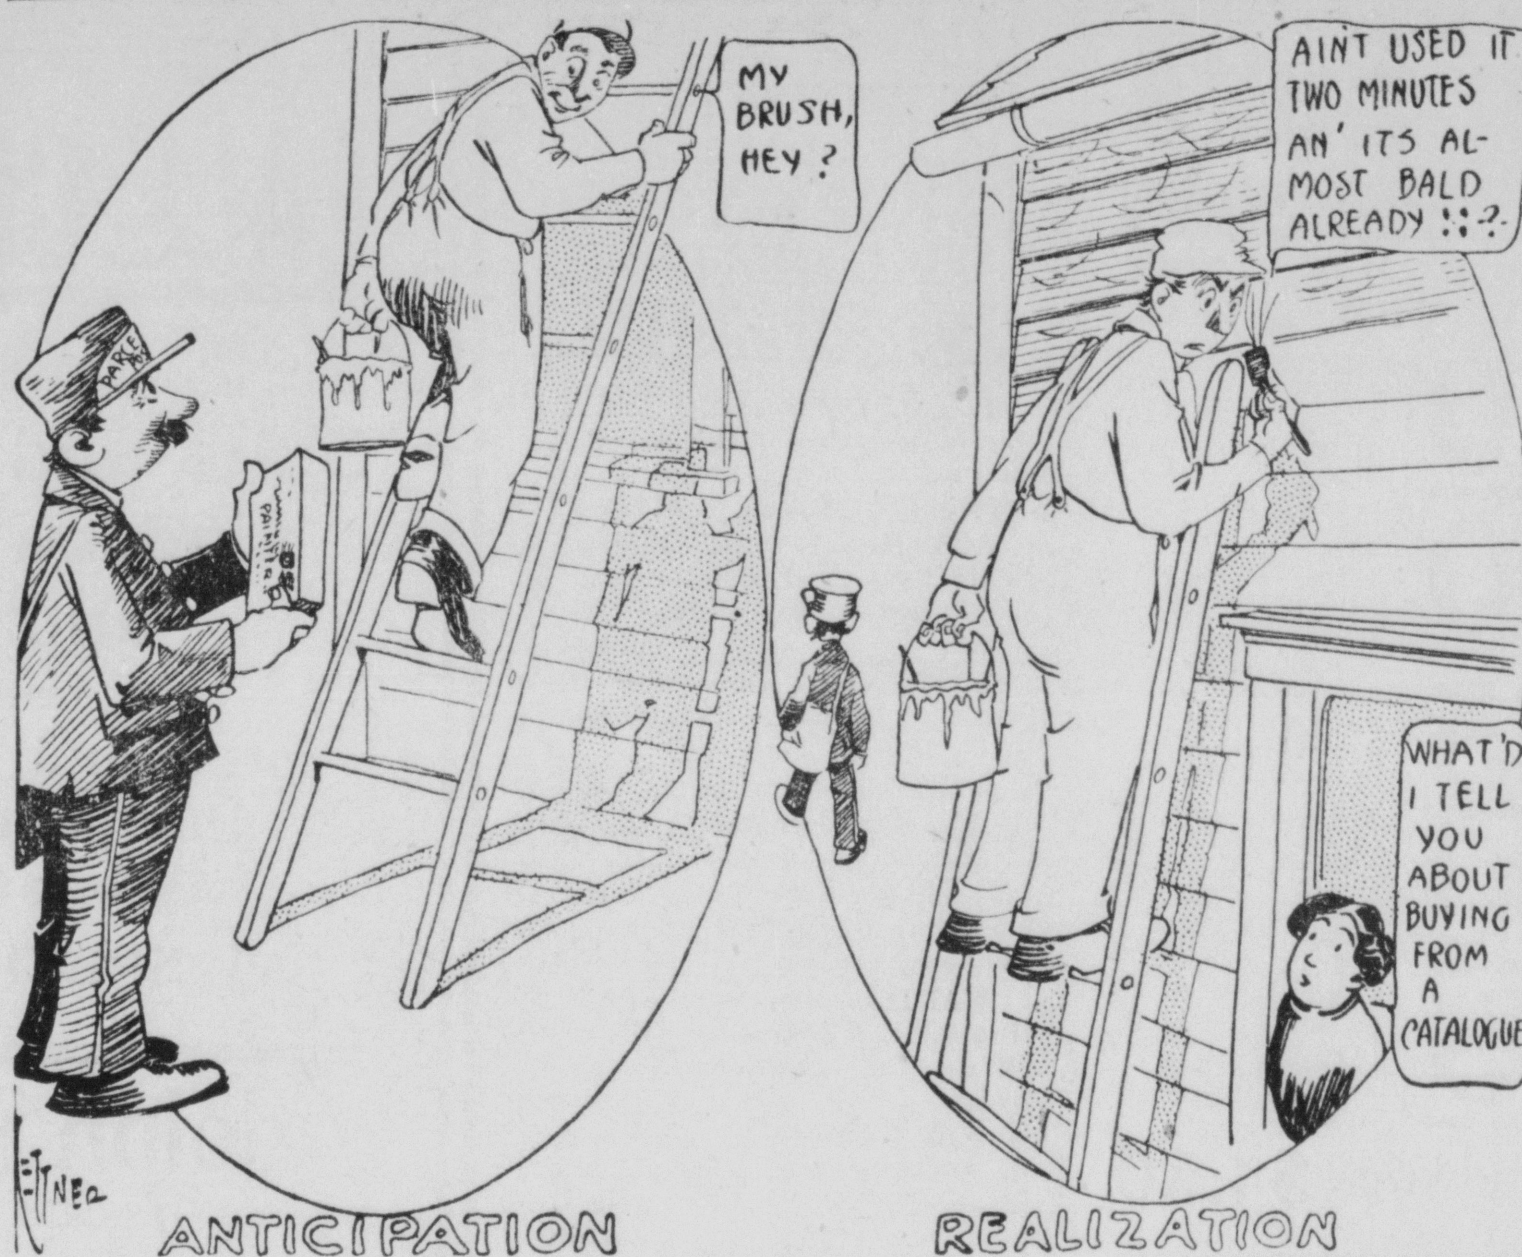

"Why dangerous? I'm quite capable of taking care of myself. You said so."

"You're already in trouble."

"Yes, but my heart's broken now, and there isn't anything more to worry about. I'll never love any one else. I have a good job, and—well, I'm going to stick to it. And when the Hazards don't want me any longer the Dykemans do, and there's a long list of others I won't bother you to name. I've made good in my job, which reminds me that if I don't go look after it I may not have it very long."

I rose; it never occurred to me that I was pushing Jo out of my scheme of life. "Use the stock to finance the dressmaking, dear, and take a little tip from me—you take care of yourself!"

STILL ANOTHER DISAPPOINTMENT

(Copyright.)

"Why, what do you mean?" Jo asked, but I'm sure she knew what I was going to answer.

"John Crowninshield never looked twice at a woman in his life; he has looked at you I don't know how many times, for I don't know how many interviews have been necessary about that stock, but—I thrust out a rigid forefinger dramatically—"beware!"

It was perhaps ten o'clock when Jo took a notion to see the gallery. The notion was quite sudden, too. She even interrupted John to say so, apropos of nothing. We met Hap on the stairs as we went up. I remembered afterward that he looked puzzled and was flushed a little. He shouted to Burrows from the stairs.

"Who locked the card-room?"

"No one, sir."

"It's locked; have it unlocked. Where is Thomas?"

"I don't know, sir."

There was more anger in the way he spoke to Burrows than such a simple thing warranted. He came up to the gallery with us, glaring at the card-room door as we passed.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "Do you want to play poker?"

"No, but I want the room unlocked. It's not supposed to be locked."

We climbed upward in silence.

"Well, you might quit looking like a thundercloud," I suggested presently.

"I haven't been horrid, have I?"

He glanced up to where Jo and John Crowninshield were disappearing into the gallery, and apropos of nothing he seized my hand and pressed it to his lips.

Inside the picture gallery was Thomas, the footman about whom Hap had asked Burrows. When Jo and John Crowninshield entered they found him standing in front of the Velasquez, staring at it oddly. He should have been below, of course. Upon our entrance he turned and stalked out. Hap looked after him with a pucker of perplexity in his forehead.

Jo was surprised at the size of the gallery, just as I had been. She hadn't Hap and I dropped down on a bench, expected it. She walked the length of the room, then turned back.

"Are all these pictures originals?" she asked.

"No," John answered her. "A few are copies, but valuable copies."

"Let's see if I can pick the copies," she suggested, and walked the length of the gallery again.

Hap and I dropped down on a bench, but John followed her.

"That one," said Jo presently.

"Oh, that's easy, Jo," I cried. "The original is in the National Gallery, and you know it."

"And this!"

"No, that's a Greuze," John explained.

"Sorry," smiled Jo. "Greuze made so many heads, didn't he? Is the Lely next to it genuine?"

"Yes."

"Is that a Velasquez, or a copy?" Hap asked her, and indicated the disputed picture before which we were sitting.

"I wonder if she lost anything that time?" Jo said to me when we were

"I don't know," Jo replied. "I'd say—She chose her distance and looked at it a long time—'copy!'"

"It's disputed," John told her. "Five experts say it isn't, twelve say it is. Fred—Mr. Hazard—believed it was an original and bought it."

"The old geezer used to frighten me when I was a kid," Hap remarked, "but he doesn't seem so fierce now. His eyes always looked so—well, clean through, you know—baleful, a novelist would say. I'd call them watery, now." He regarded the "old geezer" smilingly. "Pleasant looking customer, isn't he?"

"I'd hate to meet him up a dark alley," John laughed.

"That's a copy, isn't it?" asked Jo, and pointed to a picture on the opposite wall.

"No, a real Van Dyke," John replied.

"I'll quit guessing!" Jo exclaimed, but she crossed the room and stood for a long time before the Van Dyke.

"Aren't you afraid to leave all these beautiful pictures here in the country?" she asked finally, coming back where we were.

"They are insured," Hap answered. "Against fire, or theft?"

"Fire. No one wants to steal them. No one has an opportunity. I'd like to see a thief get away with that big fellow. Jenkins sits on the steps all winter with a gun."

"Are they protected now?"

"Well, not with a gun. There's no need when we are here."

Hap tried the card-room door as we descended; it gave to his touch and swung open. He switched on the lights and looked about. The room was quite in order. I couldn't see any cause for the pucker between his eyes. He lighted a cigarette and smoked it thoughtfully as we descended the stairs. He smoked where he pleased; he had learned to put the ashes in his pocket. Occasionally he would remove his cigarette from his lips, regard the lighted end intently, then smile, or frown, and smoke again. I watched the performance, highly amused.

"A clue, Monsieur Lecoq?" I whispered.

"I'm a fool," he replied. "I'm letting my imagination run away with me."

"I can prove an alibi this time," I pursued flippantly. "I haven't been in the card-room for a month."

"Please don't, dear," he said quickly.

He was quite serious about it. A silly lump got into my throat. My feelings were always near the surface when he was serious. I glanced up and met that look in his eyes I was never going to be able to take care of.

"Who locked the door, Burrows?" he asked, when we reached the lower hall.

"It wasn't locked, sir."

"You are quite sure, Burrows?"

"Quite sure, sir."

"What was Thomas doing in the picture gallery?"

"I didn't know he was there, sir."

"How long has he been here, Burrows?"

"Since we came to the country, sir."

"Whatever else Hap intended to say was not said. There was a commotion in the drawing-room, a scurrying of feet and the overturning of a chair. Natalie had fainted."

Some one, Mrs. Higginson I believe it was, was shrieking excitedly to get her into the open air, but Jo reached her first, stretched her on the floor, flopped her over, and deftly and quickly unhooked her dress. She gave Natalie's corset strings a pull and released them. Hardly a minute later Natalie, with her head on Jo's knee, opened her eyes. She was a bit bewildered and confused, but all right.

Jo sent for a wrap to cover Natalie's somewhat disarranged toilet, and when she had quite recovered John Crowninshield and Benny Bliss assisted her upstairs.

"I wonder if she lost anything that time?" Jo said to me when we were alone.

I stared at her, startled.

"Then you think—?"

"I think if she did the thief is a woman, as Mr. Hazard thinks," Jo replied calmly. "The men got out when I started to undress her."

"It almost looked as if you did it purposely."

"I did. When I saw her fall I thought of what you told me of her fainting at the reception in town. I acted more quickly than I thought. I tried to remember who was near her."

"Well?" I demanded excitedly, when she didn't go on.

"Some one in dark blue."

"Mrs. Sargent," I said.

"And the very fat one?"

"Mrs. Higginson."

"And—really I don't remember. She was standing near a window, I think."

"Jo, where was the duke?"

"At the piano, all the way across the room." She regarded me questioningly. "I'd really like to know if she—she lost anything."

"I know a way to find out," I said. "Ask her."

The Danger After Grip

lies often in a run-down system. Weakness, nervousness, lack of appetite, energy and ambition, with disordered liver and kidneys often follow an attack of this wretched disease. The greatest need then is Electric Bitters, the glorious tonic, blood purifier and regulator of stomach, liver and kidneys. Thousands have proved that they wonderfully strengthen the nerves, build up the system and restore to health and good spirits after an attack of Grip. If suffering, try them. Only 50 cents. GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Natural Color.

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and luster makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty, and makes it grow.

Well-Known Rochester Citizen Saved From Serious Trouble.

I have used your preparation, Swamp-Root, with great success, and for kidney and bladder trouble I have never found anything to equal it. I have recommended it to a great many people and have never been disappointed as to results obtained from its use. I feel it my duty to write you this as it may be the means of persuading others to give this grand remedy a trial.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved me from Bright's Disease and Dropsy in 1884, after the doctors said I could not possibly live.

Yours very truly,

A. J. Brown,

Rochester, N. Y.

99 Pembroke St. State of New York, County of Monroe, ss.

Personally appeared before me, this 21st day of August, 1911, A. J. Brown, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Seymour Daily Republican. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

THE SUCCULENT SPARERIB.

PORK will soon be at its best, and spareribs are available at most butchers. Well browned and served with fried potatoes or fried mush, spareribs are delicious. Spareribs are usually roasted or sautéed.

A Decorative Effect.

Spareribs With Spinach.—Take a half dozen spareribs. If they have been salted, soak in cold water for half an hour. Then drain them and place in a saucepan. Add two carrots cut into pieces, an onion with a couple of cloves stuck in it and a tiny bit of garlic. Cover the spareribs and vegetables with water, season with a half teaspoonful of salt and a half teaspoonful of white pepper. Cover the pan and let it boil for three-quarters of an hour. Then add six raw potatoes of uniform size. Let these boil for half an hour. Place some boiled spinach on a hot plate, arrange the spareribs on this and use the potatoes and other vegetables as a border.

Broiled In Oil.

Deviled Spareribs.—Take six fresh spareribs, rub them with a little olive oil and season with salt and pepper. Lay on the broiler and broil slowly on each side. Take off the fire, dip them in a half ounce of melted butter mixed well with two spoonfuls of ground mustard, a teaspoonful of white wine vinegar, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce, a saltspoonful of salt, a half saltspoonful of cayenne pepper and the yolk of one egg. Then roll in bread or cracker crumbs and broil again for a couple of minutes. Serve on a hot dish.

With Boiled Cabbage.

Spareribs With Cabbage.—Soak the spareribs in cold water for half an hour if they are the salted ones. Select a nice white cabbage, take off the outer leaves and quarter it, removing the stalk; place in a saucepan, cover with hot water, season with salt and pepper and boil slowly for three quarters of an hour. Then add the spareribs, covering the pan again and boil a little longer. Put in six peeled potatoes of uniform size and boil until done. Arrange the cabbage on a hot dish with the potatoes as a border. Lay the spareribs on top and serve.

Mrs. Mary Peek and daughter, Miss Josephine, and F. M. Peek were called to Kokomo this morning on account of the serious illness of his mother.

The regular ministerial meeting was held this afternoon. The principal paper was read by the Rev. William A. Schreff, pastor of the German M. E. church.

It was reported here Saturday afternoon that Jack Johnson, the pugilist, who was arrested for the abduction of the white girl, Lucile Cameron, in Chicago has been shot and killed by the girl's brother. The report was without foundation. Johnson was arrested but released on bail. When he drove in his automobile to the bank to get the money for his bail some threats were made against him, but no violence was shown. As he was getting into his machine some one dropped an ink bottle from a ten story building and it narrowly missed his head.
